THE Post fears the Democratic managers are making a mistake in drawing the lines too tightly on the temperance question. This is in the nature of giving up the fight in Indiana. We are not making a face.

WOULD it be possible to present a more effective commentary on the Republican party than the naked statement that it is rouning General Chal-mers for Congress?—Washington Post.

Well, no, we don't think it would. The descrition of the Bourbon party by General Chalmers, and hosts of others, and the alacrity with which the enfrauchised blacks co-operate with old confederate leaders is a very effective commentary, We like it as far as we have got very much. How does it suit the Post?

Judge Ranney, of Massachusetts. The speech of Hon. Ambrose A. Ranney, of Massachusetts, delivered in the House of Representatives on the 20th of July, in the contested election case of Smith vs. Shelley, from Alabama, is an exhaustive review of the facts in the case, and the conclusions are stated in a manner that would befit any judicial can get it. tribunal in the land. It is a strong This Mr. Massey declares was only inindictment of the Bourbons broadcast over the land. When such men as Judge Ranney devote themselves came satisfied that Mahone had such a to the investigation of the Southern crimes against the ballot-box with such results as in the case before us, it cannot be set aside carelessly as the work treated as the truth of history tried in people must be made by chosen representatives. When they are made by defeated men, falsely certified as elected. it will not be long before laws will fall

Judicial Persecution in Ireland. If a jury gets drunk while trying a criminal in Ireland and a newspaper mentions the fact, with comments, and if the newspaper is Irish, and its editor is a member of Parliament and high sheriff of Dublin, and an ex-lord mayor of that city, then and in that case the editor is seized and thrown into prison for three months and fined $2,500 for contempt of court. This is English justice and English civil liberty. The above states a case which has just occurred. Mr. E. Dwyer Gray, a member of Parliament, high sheriff of Dublin, and who was lord mayor of that city in 1880 and declined a second term, is proprietor of the Dublin Freemen's Journal. He published in the Journal a letter of Mr. O'Brien, editor of the United Ire'and, accusing the jury in a murder case of being drunk on the night previous to the day their verdict of guilty was given, and commented on the letter in an article. Imagine an editor of a London newspaper imprisoned for three months and fined two thousand five hundred dollars for such a publication. The name of the modern Jeffries who perpetrated this outrage is Dawson. He refused to allow the distinguished victim of his wrath to have time to employ counsel in his defense. The Lord Mayor of Dublin has called a special meeting of the city corporation for Monday night to consider measures for Mr. Gray's release. The greatest excitement has been created by this unparalleled outrage. Messrs. Parnell and Dillon have joined the Lord Mayor in a public appeal to the people for the preservation of order. At a meeting in the city hall, on the occasion of the presentation of the freedom of the city to Parnell and Dillon, the mayors of nearly every city in Ireland, and all the Irish members of parliament being present, the Lord Mayor advised the people to be most careful and guarded in their language, as they were in the midst of a great crisis. Mr. Parnell said it was clear that liberty of speech no longer existed in Ireland. The Irish members will bring the outrage to the attention of the House of Commons at the first opportunity. If the conduct of this tyrannical judge is not condemned by the English government, and he deposed from the place he has disgraced, there will be reason for fearing that it is the deliberate against her people.

Turkey in Egypt.

England has now been at war with Egypt for more than a month, by request of the Khedive, and has been patiently waiting to be requested by the Sultan to continue it. England says she has no quarrel with Egypt herself, but is only putting down a rebellion against the Khedive. She also acknowledges that the Khedive is subject to the Sultan, and hence her desire to have it understood that she is fighting Egypt more to oblige the Sultan than anybody else except the Khedive. But the Sultan says her invasion of Egypt is without right, and that her bombardment of Alexandria was an outrage on Egypt and Turkey, and a gross offense against international law. The following dispatch from Constantinople, under date of the 16th instant, is wholesome reading: The draught of the military convention proposed by the Porte to England was as follows: "The Turkish army undertakes the pacification of Egypt without foreign assistance, the British to remain in their present positions and not to participate in the operations. The Turks shall be allowed to use Alexandria as a base of operations, and the Turks and British both to withdraw after the paci-fication of the country."

This is in exact accord with the situation as stated some days since in these columns. Turkey is a higher authority than England to determine whether there is a rebellion in Egypt. Turkey has not yet assented to the pretense that Arabi is a rebel because he refused to be in complicity with the Khedive's surrender to alien control. The Sultan's position seems likely to be vindicated by the complete submission to him by Arabi and the Egyptians, A dispatch from Constantinople to the London Daily News

It is stated in Turkish circles that the hesitation to issue the proclamation against Arabi Pasha is owing to the fact that a telegram was received from him five days ago, expressing his readiness to submit to the authority of the caliph, but stating that he could not leave his soldiers without a head until the arrival of the Turkish troops in Egypt, when be would instantly hand over his mand to the Turkish general. The military convention is still uns tiled for the same reason.

With Arabi submitting to the Sultan, and the Egyptian soldiers under the Turkish general, what need will there be of English aid to pacify pacified Egypt? Of course all this does not meet the approval of the English intruders. Lord Dufferin, the English ambassador at Constantinople, did not agree to the Turkish programme, but submitted another stipulating that the Turks should not undertake operations without the previous consent of the British commander; that British officers should be attached to the Turkish headquarters, and that the question of evacuation should be the subject of a special convention. No one believes that the Sultan will agree to any such conditions as these. And so England's sole excuse for being in Egypt is the authority of the Khedive, whose own family denounce him as either the prisoner or the puppet of Egypt's English foes, When Turkey proclaims Arabi a loyalist instead of a rebel, and has command over him and his troops, the tables may be turned on England, and the other powers may insist that she shall cease to obstruct the pacification of Egypt.

Massey's Defense.

Parson Massey is out in a published reply to the charge that he attempted to bribe a member of the Virginia legislature. He says that all he did was to go to the member voluntarily and effer to do him a kindness, which offer, he says, was couched in the following words:

I greatly appreciate the interest you have manited in my behalf, and if I can do you a kindness it will afford me pleasure, and if you have need of a few hundred dollars for a year or so you

Alabama, and should be scattered not intimated any desire for a loan. Mr. Massey says this occurred after he becontrol of a majority of the caucus that there was no chance for the election of any one but Riddleberger to the United States Senate, and he (Massey) had thereof demagogues or agitators, but will be fore withdrawn from the contest. Now, it is notorious that an effort was made to the crucible of justice. The laws of a free | induce a minority of the caucus to abandon it, and by a combination with the Funders to defeat the caucus nominee. Can Mr. Massey satisfy anybody that he was not engaged in this effort?

> If so, had he withdrawn from the contest when he offered, unasked, to loan $500 to a member of the caucus who had at one time favored his nomination? There were but five members of the legislature who favored Massey's ambition for the Senate. Did he not endeavor to take these and enough more out of the caucus to reduce it below a majority of the legislature, so that it could not elect its nominee? Was he out of the contest > while this was going on? FROM a reading of the recent dispatches from the East it appears that England's position in Egyptian affairs is that of an unfortunate bystander who insists upon adjusting the domestic relations between husband and wife or parent and child against their joint protest and in violation of law.

THE Post tries to seem joyful over the nomination of Mr. O'Ferrall as the Bourbon-Funder candidate for Congress in the seventh Virginia district. Why, John Paul could no more be beaten in that district than an express train could be beaten by an ox team. THE Post says THE REPUBLICAN made faces at it the other day. Not so. If our facial expression is less fascinating than that of our neighbor he must not think our plainness is willful. It is not given to every newspaper to be as handsome

The Way to Stop Drinking

"Talk about stopping the drinking habits of the people!" exclaimed the lecturer; "there is but one way to do it—you must remove the cause." "True fr you, of fell," shouted a demoralized hearer, "true fryou. That's what I've been trying to do all my life. Bring on yer cause if yer want it removed."—Boston Transcript.

Musical, But Not Popular.

The Princess Bestrice has lately set to music two of Lord Beaconsfield's poems, but it is not likely that they will become as popular as "Over the Gardon Wall." One of Walt Whitman's poems set to music would sound like a bass violinist tuning up his hadde and a string snapping every five minutes.—Nerrislown Herald.

You Bei, Sarah Was Here. The Emma Abbott kiss may yet claim the pre-cedence for depth, but the old Bernhardt kiss has never been beaten for breadth, resonance, con-cussion, and recoil. The base viol player has had the gold filling started in his back teeth again and again by the reverberation.—Roomerang.
